

Medical Emergency Calls for Fast Service and Parts

When a supplier of medical equipment needed stainless steel nameplates by the end of the week, they wasted no time to find a source.

Once finding Roemer's products and expedited delivery service online, the company placed an urgent call. The project, nerve markers for a hand transplant surgery, required sets of stainless steel nameplates that were only 3/8 of an inch in size. The markers also needed to be engraved with individual codes. Because of the size, Roemer's engineering team needed to ensure the ability to engrave in such a small area.

Confirming Roemer's ability to manufacture the parts, the markers were quoted, ordered and sent in for production all in one days time. By combining Roemer's diverse manufacturing with the RoemerRapid expedite service, the supplier was able to fulfill their client's needs and deliver the nerve markers before the emergency transplant surgery.
